The Colle-Zukertort, or more accurately the "Zukertort variation of the Colle System," is a chess opening strategy where White locks up the center, causing transportation issues for Black, and can then attack the enemy King. A video illustrating the opening is shown below. You might have to turn the volume up a bit to hear the audio.

The Zukertort System is a fully viable, dynamic 21st-century opening. Often considered a variation of the better-known Colle System, the Zukertort stands proudly on its own, offering White chances to launch a sharp kingside attack or to work up a slow squeeze on the queenside.

Description Colle-Zukertort is the name of a set-up in which White starts with 1.d4 but then does not continue with c4 and does not develop his bishop on c1. Instead, White continues with Nf3, e3, Bd3 and Nbd2. If White now plays c3 we reach the original Colle-set-up, if White plays b3 we reach Zukertort structures.

The Colle System, also known as the Colle-Koltanowski System, is a chess opening strategy for White introduced in the 1920s by the Belgian master Edgard Colle. It was then further developed by George Koltanowski. This variation of the Queen's Pawn Game is characterised by a systematic if modest development of White's minor pieces to support a quick pawn move to the e4-square. The Colle is considered solid, but inflexible.

This is a repertoire book for the White player utilizing the undeservedly less popular Zukertort flavour of the Colle System. In the "CZ" System the c1 (Queen's for the more mature reader !) bishop is developed to b2 rather than the c1 – h6 diagonal as in the Koltanowski flavour of the Colle System.

As Williams himself explained in his 'Simon Says' show, the DVD would have been better titled as Colle-Zukertort, because Williams, in order to give more of an attacking repertoire, focuses on the move b3 which was played by Zukertort quite some years before Colle and Koltanowski. Zukertort is modestly famous thanks to his involvement in the first official World Championship match with Wilhelm Steinitz.

Some common "system" openings: Colle (d4, e3, c3, Bd3) Colle-Zukertort (white plays the Colle with b3 and Bb2 instead of c3) Stonewall Attack (d4, e3, f4, Bd3) King's Indian Attack (e4, d3, g3, Bg2, Nf3) Notice that these openings don't try to occupy the center. By not occupying the center, white avoids confrontation until later in the game.

The formation c3-d4-e3 is the famous Colle triangle. Although White takes two moves to achieve e4, it should lead either to an open game after...dxe4 or, if Black avoids the exchange, the strong advance e5. Black should keep up the pressure on d4, holding up White's e4 break and threatening to isolate the d-pawn. Here's a game to get us started:
